

Carla Kramer and David Clark

July 6th 2002

Isn't it interesting how you can continually cross paths with your soul mate and not even know it? Tonya, (David's sister and Carla's friend) had invited both of us to the same parties, dinners and outings for a year before we both ended up at the same event. We had heard several stories about each other but didn't think twice about it until the 4th of July weekend, when Tonya left us stranded together at the beach. The sun was shining, the water inviting and we clicked instantly. From the moment we met, we couldn't stop talking to each other. After a long day of jet skiing, we sat on the beach and haven't stopped talking since!

We were engaged over the weekend of the Florida-Georgia football game. I planned to spend my lunch hour at the gym until a limo arrived, carrying orange and blue flowers (Florida Gator colors) and a little black dress. I changed and was whisked to lunch at the Wine Cellar restaurant, where David was waiting to propose.

The wedding planning began immediately. After being in several weddings ourselves, we knew how important it was to pick out just the right photographer. We wanted someone who was not only a natural talent but a personality we would enjoy. After an exhaustive search we met with Dan Harris. First we reviewed the pictures on his website and spoke to people he had worked with previously. After we met with Dan, we were impressed with his professionalism, natural talent, package options and personality.

On the day of our wedding, Dan exceeded any and all expectations we had. Everyone was comfortable and natural around him, so he was able to capture every special moment of the day. We could not wait to see the pictures and share them with our friends and family. Everyone was so excited to view the wedding pictures online. Our out-of-town guests were especially thrilled they could see them and order pictures for themselves. Much to our delight, Dan was able to capture special moments throughout the ceremony and reception that even we were unaware of. We are thankful to have these amazing pictures to remember our special day.
